Brian Korte "Brick Artist" (www.Brickworkz.com)

Richmond Design Firm supports "Art Affair" presented by Bon Air Artists Association.

Richmond, Va - October 14, 2006 - Chris Hollomon, President of the design firm Shockwest announced today that Shockwest will be supporting the 14th annual art show presented by the Bon Air Artists Association, located at Stony Point Fashion Park on October 21 and 22. To help promote the event, Shockwest will be presenting publicly the Lego® artwork of Brian Korte "Brick Artist" as well as presenting live demonstrations throughout the day by the artist.

"We are thrilled to be supporting the arts at this year's show," stated Chris Hollomon, President and Founder of Shockwest Design. "We are fans of Brian's 'brick mosaics' and are pleased to put his works on display for the Art Affair." The entire staff of Shockwest has been working hard to promote the Art Affair and Brickworkz in the weeks preceding the event, and look forward to browsing the artists venue themselves.

Shockwest invites everyone to visit the Shockwest booth located in Stony Point Fashion Park mall in order to see the artist in action. Watch as Brian Korte puts together a mosaic made up of thousands of tiny Lego bricks. Brian turned a childhood love into a beloved art form and then formed Brickworkz so that people could learn more about his unique art. Brickworkz has been seen in galleries, events, and news articles across the state. Shockwest staff will also be on-site providing information and answering questions about the event, the presenting artists, and our design services.
